A former U.S. attorney and Department of Justice official, Mark Calloway draws on his experience with the DOJ to effectively represent companies, individual executives, and state and local agencies in their most important and sensitive government investigations and litigation. Hospital systems, medical practices, drug and device manufacturers, and health insurers depend on Mark to navigate them through federal criminal investigations and civil False Claims Act litigation. He represents manufacturers and executives in federal criminal antitrust investigations. Fact-driven, Mark regularly conducts confidential and sensitive internal investigations.

Before joining Alston & Bird, Mark served as the U.S. attorney for the Western District of North Carolina (1994 – 2001). During his tenure with the DOJ, Mark also served as director of the Executive Office for United States Attorneys, which has responsibility for support and oversight of all 93 U.S. Attorneys' Offices, and played a key role in management and policy implementation for the DOJ. He also served as chair of the Attorney General's Advisory Committee of U.S. Attorneys.

In 2001, Attorney General Janet Reno awarded Mark the Edmund J. Randolph Award for outstanding service to the DOJ. Mark is listed in Chambers USA: America's Leading Lawyers for Business, The Best Lawyers in America® since 2005, and North Carolina Super Lawyers since 2006. His peers in the legal community have selected Mark as one of North Carolina's "Legal Elite."
