Matt Strumph is an associate in the Corporate Transactions & Securities Group at Alston & Bird. He focuses his practice on mergers and acquisitions, capital markets, and securities law compliance. Matt represents private equity funds, as well as privately held and publicly traded companies, in M&A transactions, joint ventures, and partnerships. Matt also advises issuers and investment banking firms in public offerings and private placements of debt and equity securities, including follow-on offerings, 144A private placements, and at-the-market transactions. Additionally, Matt counsels companies on corporate governance and compliance matters, including periodic reporting and correspondence with the SEC.

Before joining Alston & Bird, Matt received his J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law, where he served as a development editor for the Journal of Law & Politics. He received his B.A., summa cum laude, in public policy studies from Duke University, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.
